Nuclear Verdicts in South Carolina? There soon may be an "occurrence" or two...or twelve...in the near future.

David Williford, Esq., Partner, Huff, Powell, & Bailey

This session will focus on:

Nuclear verdicts - and, consequently, settlements - are on the rise in other states, based on a variety of factors including the erosion of tort reform protections. In South Carolina, the primary avenue through which large verdicts and settlements are being pursued is the "occurrence" doctrine. Current efforts among the plaintiffs' bar to allege multiple occurrences in their Complaints and to request jury determinations of multiple occurrences on verdict forms, coupled with efforts within the South Carolina Legislature to change the definition of "occurrence" under S.C. Code Ann. § 15-78-30(g), indicate that a nuclear war may be on the horizon. Hospitals, health care professionals, risk managers, and attorneys must understand what the law is, how the law is being utilized, and how it is being changed. Understanding these current efforts in the medico-legal environment might help us to encourage better delivery of health care services to patients.

OBJECTIVES:

1. Understand the current law with respect to "occurrence" in the S.C. Tort Claims Act
 - a.) What is the current definition of "occurrence" in the South Carolina Tort Claims Act?
 - b.) How has case law defined and applied the term "occurrence" in South Carolina?
 - c.) How are plaintiff attorneys drafting Complaints to allege multiple occurrences for the purpose of "stacking" caps?
2. Understand the proposed legislative changes to the term "occurrence" in the S.C. TCA
3. Practical ways to encourage health care professionals to provide better care to patient

Bio's:

Edward Bender:

Edward Bender is the General Counsel and Executive Director of Regulatory Affairs for the South Carolina Hospital Association. In addition, he also acts as the Association's primary lobbyist. He spends most of his time in this role, working on health care policy, advocating SCHA's positions before the General Assembly and other governmental entities, and drafting legislation. This job is the perfect blend of his prior legal jobs – an associate on Nexsen Pruet's health care team and counsel to the Clerk of the South Carolina Senate. Outside of work enjoys spending time with his wife and their four kids, lifting weights, and the New York Times crossword puzzle.

John Williams:

John provides leadership for SCHA's disaster and emergency preparedness initiatives. He joined SCHA in 2018 from Palmetto Health (Prisma Health), South Carolina's largest healthcare system. He has more than 12 years of experience in healthcare emergency management, serving in leadership positions in engineering, safety, emergency management, and life safety at healthcare facilities prior to joining SCHA. At SCHA, he serves as an advisor and information resource, offering one-on-one support, such as helping emergency managers prepare for Joint Commission reviews, and serving as liaison for professional membership groups for engineers and emergency managers. He is a member of the Governor's Task Force for Public Health Emergencies and coordinates with state, federal and local agencies on behalf of hospitals in preparing for and managing statewide crises, such as hurricanes, floods and the COVID-19 pandemic. John holds a double major B.S. degree in occupational safety and health and in environmental engineering and an M.S. in organizational leadership and healthcare management from Waldorf University in Forest City, Iowa. He is a certified hospital safety professional, certified emergency safety professional and certified electrician.

Patrick Devlin:

Patrick provides leadership to Tidelands Health in his role as Director of Safety, Security and Emergency Management. He joined Tidelands Health in 2015 from M Health Fairview (formerly know as Fairview Health Services). He has 15 years of experience in healthcare safety and emergency management and 8 with healthcare security. During his time with Tidelands Health, he has lead the organizations crisis response to multiple hurricanes, floods, a global pandemic, IT incidences and numerous other day to day emergencies. Patrick holds the title of Certified Healthcare Protection Administrator from the International Association of Healthcare Safety and Security as well as being a certified emergency manager through the state of Minnesota. Patrick holds a B.S degree in microbiology and immunology from East Carolina University (Go PIRATES!). He lives in Murrells Inlet, South Carolina with his wife and dogs.
